This book provides a conceptual and legal analysis of the core of investment protection guarantees that emerge from international treaties signed since 1959 for the promotion and protection of foreign investment. It focuses on both the origin and evolution of investment treaty standards.

FEATURES

- Provides a comprehensive overview of the essential features of key investment protection provisions, such as fair and equitable treatment, full protection and security, and expropriation
- Proposes three key concepts through which these provisions, and their related controversies can be viewed: stability, value, and reasonableness
- Focuses on practice, examining the many key decisions of investment tribunals interpreting and applying investment treaties
